HAS NO AXE TO GRIND

A MISSOURI WONDER IN WASHINGTON

Senator Vest Convalescing—Report on the Cattle Plague—A New Gun Finished—The Question of Civil Cases in the Indian Territory—The Anti-Silver Men.

Special Telegram to The Star.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Colonel Bob Claiborne arrived this morning and leaves to-morrow to visit his mother, who lives near Lynchburg, Va. He will look over a tract of 1,100 acres of land about sixty miles from Lynchburg, and expects to return to Washington the fore part of next week. He made an early call at the postal department and under the escort of Hon. N. M. Bell, visited the postmaster-general to present a petition for the appointment of Thomas Phelan of St. Louis, brother of Father Phelan, as mail agent. During the day he called on Solicitor Goode, who is an old friend, and Senator Ransom, under whose command he served during the war. He says he can safely say he is not an office seeker, and there is no office President Cleveland could give him as good as the one he now holds by the grace of the people of St. Louis. So he had no ax to grind in coming to Washington.

Senator Vest is still mending steadily, although not strong enough to leave his bed. If there is no relapse he will be about next week. Mrs. Vest has heretofore been at Fortress Monroe for her health, and it is quite probable the senator will go there for several weeks or a month.

Senator Cockrell thinks Missouri may be able to secure one more inspector before General Vilas complets his appointments. If another appointment is given Missouri, it will go to either Nelson or Garver, and the chances are believed to be in Nelson's favor. The postmaster general confirmed to-day the appointment of Geo. W. Detheridge, of Carrollton, Mo., as postal inspector. It was nip and tuck all day yesterday between Detheridge, Garver, of Grant City, and Nelson, of Joplin, but Detheridge bagged the prize.

Representative Swinburne, to whom matters relating to cattle fever in the western states and Texas fever or cattle plague in the southern states were referred by the house committee on agriculture, has made a report on the subject in which he makes a thorough scientific review of the question. He says the condition of the infected cattle and the symptoms before death combined with the appearance of the animal after all led him to believe that there was a strong analogy between cholera in the human race and the so-called Texas plague in cattle in its mode of propagation, and spread among cattle as well as very many conditions and symptoms in common with yellow fever. It would seem that the disease, like cholera, is spread by the excretions of the infected cattle in course of transportation, and that cattle that have been apparently free from disease have possessed the germs which they drop in course of transportation and which have been received by and inflicted on other cattle. Should this be true, the report says, the remedy would be very simple and may be made effectual by an efficient quarantining of all diseased cattle that have been exposed to the disease. In this case a board fence separating the well from the sick would be a sufficient preventive. Dr. Swinburne expresses the opinion that the infected northern and western cattle do not transmit the disease one to the other. He recommends an appropriation for a scientific commission to investigate the plague and discover if possible its cause. He also recommends the enactment of a law requiring the transportation of cattle in cars or boats constructed for the purpose, in which the comfort of the cattle could be secured and overcrowding prevented and that all railroad and steamboat companies engaged in such traffic be required to provide proper yards at stated distances, where the cattle can be unloaded and supplied with pure water and good food, and that at such points the cars or boats engaged in such transportation be thoroughly cleansed and disinfected. It is further recommended that on the appearance of the disease among the cattle, either in the infected section or among cattle in process of transportation, a system of strict quarantine be established and that no infected cattle, or cattle exposed to infection, be permitted to leave the buarantine or be offered for sale within forty days, or until the extreme period of inoculation has expired.

The first of the eight-inch steel rifles in course of construction at the ordnance department of the navy yard has been finished and the naval authorities are all anxious to learn the result of the test that is shortly to be made of the gun at the experimental battery at Annapolis. This is the first eight-inch steel rifle this government has ever made and in fact it is the second steel rifle of any kind built by the United States. When the question of steel rifles was discussed in congress in connection with the new cruisers it was said that this government could not manufacture them and the ordnance authorities were consulted and finally authorized to make several and the rest were given out to contractors. It can be safely said that the government will build all of its rifles in the future. The cost of constructing the guns in the ordnance shops in the navy yard has been accurately noted and it is found that the government does the work for less than 50 per cent of what they are paying contractors and the quality of work cannot be questioned. The first rifle made by the government when tested proved to have no superior in the world for accuracy and penetration.

The Missouri members all received to-day copies of the resolution adopted at the meeting of the wholesale merchants at the mercantile club in St. Louis in relation to the senate bill conferring jurisdiction of civil cases arising in the Indian territory on the courts of Arkansas, Kansas and Texas. The resolutions are accompanied by a letter signed by John Rex, secretary, as follows:

"I have the honor of transmitting you herewith a copy of a resolution adopted at a meeting of the wholesale merchants held in the City of St. Louis Feb. 5, 1886, and on behalf of the wholesale merchants of this city as well as of the wholesale merchants of the several cities of our state, to beg that you carefully examine the several bills now pending in congress and referred to in the enclosed resolution, and that if consistent with your views you give this matter your earnest support."

The anti-silver men are very much discouraged with the outlook in both houses. Congressman James, of the house coinage committee, speaking of the strength of the silver sentiment said: "On a question of free coinage as against suspension a majority of the house would favor coinage. Presenting the question in that way, however, would not give the majority of the house an opportunity to express its real sentiments. All I ask is that the coinage be suspended until the European nations are ready to remonetize silver. Its continued coinage here will delay that result. The tendency in Europe is toward the remonetization of silver particularly in Germany. I do not believe in a single gold standard. I would like to see a vote taken on a proposition to suspend the coinage until we could come to some agreement with the European nations; but I fear any measure with the word suspension in it will not be favorably received by the house."

Yesterday's Congress.

Senate—The bill authorizing the construction of a bill across the Staten island sound was reported on favorably.—A bill regarding the inspection of food was introduced.—The bill to provide allotments of lands in severalty to the Indians was passed.—A joint resolution was passed requiring that the leases of the bath houses, etc., at Hot Springs, Ark., shall not be renewed unless the Forty-ninth congress shall adjourn without having legislated with reference thereto.—The education bill was discussed by Messrs. George, Morgan, Dolph, Platt, Logan, Edmunds, Hoar and Allison.—During the debate on the education bill Messrs. George and Morgan engaged in a lively war of words, Mr. Morgan claiming that he was being misrepresented by Mr. George.

House—The Hennepin canal bill was discussed by the house in committee of the whole.—The house again went into committee of the whole on the pensions appropriations bill. A long discussion took place on the bill, into which politics were dragged. Mr. Henderson proceeded to overhaul Commissioner Black's record while at the head of the pension bureau, which aroused the ire of Mr. Warner (Ohio), who alluded in a short but pointed speech to the part Commissioner Dudley took in the last presidential campaign, when he left his office to stump for the Republican candidate, at the same time drawing pay from the government. Messrs. Townshend, Henderson, Randall, Tillman, Warner, Morrison and Brown took part in the debate.

Forty-Ninth Congress.

SENATE.

After the transaction of routine business, Mr. Mitchell, of Oregon, obtained the floor to deliver a speech on the bill recently introduced by him to provide for the abrogation of all treaties permitting immigration of Chinese to the United States.

As Mr. Mitchell was about to proceed, Mr. Hale said it was so late yesterday when Mr. George completed his speech on the education bill that he (Hale) had not thought it worth while to interfere with the consideration of the bill named, but now he gave notice that on the completion of Mr. Mitchell's remarks he would move that the senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. Mitchell then addressed the senate.

HOUSE.

Mr. Morrison, of Illinois, from the committee on rules, reported a substitute for the Hanback and Pulitzer resolutions, directing an inquiry into the Pan Electric telephone matter. The substitute is as follows:

Resolved, That a select committee, consisting of nine members of the house, be appointed, and when so appointed the committee is hereby directed at as early a day as possible to make inquiry into any expenditures on the part of the government incurred relative to the rights of the Bell and Pan Electric telephone companies to priority of patents; said inquiry to include all organizations and companies that have sprung out of the Pan Electric company, or for any other purpose; and also to make a full inquiry into the issuance of stock known as Pan Electric telephone stock, or the stock of any other company, companies or organizations springing out of the Pan Electric company to any person or persons connected with legislative, judicial or executive departments of the government of the United States; to whom, when and for what consideration said stock was delivered; also, as to what opinions, decision or order have been made by officers connected with the government and by whom, and all the circumstances connected therewith or arising therefrom, and the said committee is further authorized and directed to ascertain and report whether either of the telephone companies herein mentioned or their officers, agents or employes have in any way influenced or attempted to influence officials or official action by or through the public press, and if such, when by whom and in what manner such influence was exerted or attempted to be exerted and what newspaper or newspapers were so used or attempted to be used by them. Said committee shall have a right to send for the persons or papers, to administer the oath, to sit during the session of the house, to employ a stenographer, incur any and all such necessary and reasonable expense as may be required for the purpose of conducting the investigation not to exceed the sum of $1,000, which shall be paid out of the contingent funds of the house on proper vouchers, certified by the chairman and one other member of the committee, and report at any time.

After a brief but excited debate, referring to which Mr. Gibson, of West Virginia, criticised Pulitzer, whom he accused of shrinking behind the columns of his newspaper to attack men instead of attacking them on the floor of the house, the resolution reported from the committee on rules was adopted.

BORDERING ON THE ABSURD.

Extravagant Methods Employed by Enthusiastic Real Estate Speculators in Kansas City.

Excitement over the real estate market is leading people into all kinds of absurdities. The history of the South Sea craze does not seem overdrawn to any one familiar with the details of Kansas City's real estate boom. It is not unusual for a suburban lot or acre to be sold twice in one day and each time at a big profit. The courts are beginning to fill with suits against the violators of real estate contracts resulting from the rapid advance in the value of property. For instance, a man agrees to sell a piece of acre property for $10,000 to-day. He signs his contract and agrees upon a few days' delay, in order that the title may be examined. To-morrow he is offered $12,000 for his land and the next day $15,000. Finally he risks being sued on his contract, in order to get the extra $5,000 offered while the title is being examined. As a rule, the ladies generally figure as the defendants in these contract suits. A lady real estate owner lacks the respect for a contract which most men acquire by bitter experience.

One of the eternal evidences of the mania which has possessed some of our real estate men is to be seen on a Main street sign. It stands in front of an enterprising agent's office and bears the following inscription:

REAL ESTATE
AT SATURDAY'S PRICES.

This alluring offer was displayed last Monday morning. It is apparently considered an inducement to have Saturday's advance knocked off the price of property.

The buying of options on real estate has grown to be a business in itself. There are hundreds of men who deal in real estate by buying options. A man may have an option, that is the privilege of selling within a stipulated period, on a dozen different pieces of property. One very prominent dealer in the city is buying options wherever he can get them and borrowing money at 100 per cent per annum in order to raise the payments. An option for a week or two weeks or a month can be bought on a valuable piece of property for a comparatively small sum. One hundred dollars has held business property long enough to enable the option buyer to realize a profit of $5,000. A Kansas City banker who had been very successful in buying and selling options in this city thought he would give the Chicago market some points in the business. He paid a Chicago dealer about $800 for a ten day option on a very valuable piece of Chicago business property. The customer came, offering his advance, and as he was recommended by the owner of the property, the Kansas City man promised to hold the bargain a few days in order to give time for an examination of title. Finally the purchaser said he would sign his contract accepting the property on the tenth day of the Kansas City man's option. The tenth day came and when it was gone the Kansas City banker held an expired option and the Chicago man pocketed his $800. It is evident from this little episode that Chicago can worry along in the real estate busines without any instructions from Kansas City speculators. The evil which goes hand in hand with speculation in real estate is speculative building. Some men, not satisfied with making a fortune by dealing in land, are anxious to make houses pay equally well. Superintendent Tinsley, of the building department, discovered a two-story brick residence being built on one inch planks instead of foundations yesterday. The boards were laid flat on the surface of the ground, and the brick walls placed on them. The head of the building department forced the owner to reconstruct his building on stone foundations built in accordance with the law.

THE NEWSBOYS' FRIEND.

Colonel Hogeland Succeeds in Inducing the Boys to Give Up Several Bad Habits.

Since the arrival of Colonel Hogeland, the newsboys' friend, in Kansas City six weeks ago, he has certainly accomplished a vast change for the better among the newsboys. As an example of his power of influencing boys to quit certain bad habits it may be stated that he, one afternoon, stepped into a room where over one hundred boys were congregated. The noise seemed for a moment to cease, but broke out a fresh over the presence of the man who had been lecturing to them almost daily for over a month, treating them to oranges, apples, etc., and pinning silk ribbons on each, and encouraging them in all proper ways. The colonel stood in front of them for a moment when there was a stillness like that about the most quiet of homes. He then followed in a few words of encouragement and compliments for their increased numbers, clean faces, and the absence of rudeness, and how much happier they all were. He also referred to the increased liberality of the business men in purchasing their papers, a fact that had been verified by business men and by the boys themselves. Finally the colonel said:

"Now boys, there is still one habit of which you have not made a clean sweep. I refer to the rubber slings and bean shooters with which many fine and costly windows have been destroyed; and almost daily you have endangered the eyesight of each other by them. The whole practice is undignified and a source of annoyance to the police and business men, and lessens your self respect, friends and trade. All who will agree to quit their use and urge others to do so, step up and hand them over to me.

There was a moment of stillness then followed a general handing over of scores of bean shooters. The senseless habit of many of the boys who used to congregate on the sidewalks and hallways and toss dice and win each other's stock in trade and more or less demoralize them and their business has almost wholly disappeared and scores of them have quit the use of tobacco, finding the habit expensive as well as injurious. Certainly Colonel Hogeland has done good work among the newsboys and it is only equal and exact justice that this fact be made known. It is sincerely hoped that after he has gone from Kansas City the practice of carrying rubber slings and pitching craps may continue among the things of the past.

Cash Paid for Cats's Hair.

From the Washington Star.

"Did you ever hear," asked an old resident a few days ago of a Star reporter, "how the 'slaughter of cats' was brought about?"

"No," was the answer, "I never knew of any particular slaughter of the feline species."

"Well," continued the old resident, "forty years ago or thereabouts there was a square not far from the patent office in which the cats had multiplied so that it was a mooted question whether the rodents or felines were in the ascendency. The cats and kittens fairly swarmed, and those who lived on the square finally came to the conclusion that the party who would devise some effective means of thinning them out would be entitled to the gratitude of the neighbors. This set the wits of some of the inhabitants at work, and it was not long before there appeared before one of the doors an immense placard: 'Wanted! Cats' hair. Highest cash price will be paid.' As may be supposed, this soon attracted the attention of the boys, and due inquiry elicited the reply that a sudden demand for genuine cats' hair had sprung up and that the article at that time commanded $2.50 per pound. The immediate result was that for several days none of the boys of the neighborhood could be seen on the street, but the continuous sounds of stones thrown at the cats in the alleys told where they were and what they were about. Some six or eight days had passed and the sign did not appear to have drawn in the first ounce. About sundown the dealer noticed approaching his shop from an alleyway a crowd of some thirty boys bearing in their midst a long five-bushel hay sack stuffed full. It was dropped at his door beneath his astonished gaze.

" 'Why, boys!' asked the dealer, 'what have you there?"

" 'Cats' hair, sir,' said the largest boy. 'Every bit cats' hair; killed them first and then plucked the hair; can swear to it all, sir.'

" 'Why,' exclaimed the dealer, 'I fear that you will break me if you want your pay in a lump, but bring in the bag. Let's look at it?"

"The bag was carried in and hastily opened, when the dealer exclaimed: 'Tut, tut! boys, you have it all mixed. I can't do anything with the hair as it is.' After hesitating he continued; 'Since you have had all the trouble, I'll tell you what I'll do. Just take it back and sort out the hair, put every shade to itself, and I'll allow you an advance of 75c on the pound; that will make $3.25 a pound.

"This satisfied the boys and they returned with the bag, and it is needless to say that after an attempt to separate the hair they gave up the job. The neighbors had accomplished their object and the number of cats was reduced to less than nothing."

The Equine Appetite.

From the Buffalo Courier.

A New York paper speaks of the omniverous appetite of horses, quoting David Bonner as saying that Startle would eat a beef sandwich out of his groom's hand. Everyone knows how fond most horses are of sugar, apples, cake, etc., and the fact is mentioned in the article to which reference has been made that when a horse's digestion fails him he will eat clay if he can get it, for the alkali in the clay corrects the overacidity of his stomach. As an illustration of the amount of food that a horse will consume in training it is mentioned that when Judge Fullerton was in Mace's hands he got from ten to twelve quarts of oats a day and from four to six quarts of corn meal. But horses have hardly as wide a range of taste as dogs. A Buffalo representative of the canine race we have in mind who has never been known to refuse anything that human beings eat except chow-chow. He drew the line there, but would devour with the utmost satisfaction boiled chestnuts, pop corn, and apples if pared and offered to him. Of candy he was very fond but his most marking liking was for griddle cakes with sirup. The dog authorities say that all these things are very bad for dogs, especially everything sweet, because it makes them fat, but this animal reduced the teachings of the experts to foolishness by persistently remaining very thin whatever his diet. The March Harper's has an article about dogs by Hugh Dalziel, in the course of which Dr. Billings, the veterinarian, is quoted as laying down the rule that dogs should be fed exclusively on flesh, which Mr. Dalziel very justly describes as a "crotchet." He might have used much harsher language regarding it.

KILLED WITH A CLUB.

AN EX-LIEUTENANT BEATEN TO DEATH

A Notorious Scoundrel Hanged—Only a Family Row—Beheaded by His Partner—A Man of Many Crimes Comes to Grief—Other Criminal News of the Day.

Special Telegram to The Star.

PIERCE CITY, Mo., Feb. 26.—Robert Crocket, formerly a lieutenant in a Missouri regiment, a volunteer and a long time resident of this town, was assassinated by some person or persons unknown about 11 o'clock last night while on his way home, not over 150 yards from the court house. The deceased was literally beaten to death by some blunt instrument in the hands of some person or persons unknown.

Horsethief, Bigamist and Murderer.

MEMPHIS, TENN., Feb. 26.—An Avalanche special from Springfield, Mo., says: The greatest excitement prevails over the discovery of a foul murder committed last September. George Graham is the suspected party. His victim is his wife, who came from Fort Wayne, Ind., via. St. Louis, to meet him at Springfield. He left Springfield with her and his two children on Sept. 29, but returned two days afterwards alone. Nothing more was seen of Mrs. Graham. The children, however, were taken to his farm near Brookline, seven miles distant from here. He told the lady with whom his wife stopped, that she was not the mother of the children, but their aunt. Graham had been divorced from his wife, owing to his imprisonment in the penitentiary in Indiana, for horse stealing. On his release he again wedded her and removed to Kansas. Treating her badly caused a separation, and she went home to her people in Indiana. Graham then went to Springfield, and married the neice of Mrs. Mallory, the great temperance woman. He lived with Mrs. Graham No. 2 for a year, when his whereabouts became known to Mrs. Graham No. 1, and he met her in St. Louis before bringing her to Springfield. The long absence from her home at Fort Wayne of Mrs. Graham No. 1 caused uneasiness among her relatives, and her brother-in-law, Mr. Breese, after writing many letters to people of this city, came to Springfield, and though failing to find her, had Graham arrested for bigamy and he is now in jail. This was the early part of last month, and here matters rested, but detectives of East St. Louis and Davis and White of Springfield began the trace which to-day resulted in finding the body of the missing woman naked in a dry well, fifty feet deep, near Brookline. A bullet hole was found in her right breast, which had perforated her corset.

The coroner has gone to the scene of the crime, and if the identification of the remains are satisfactory Graham will be lynched, and this will end the career of a horse thief, bigamist and murderer.

Wartena Hanged.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 26.—The Daily News special from Rensslaer, Ind., says: "Wilbron Wartena was hanged here this morning fos murder. A large crowd gathered to witness the execution, which was conducted in the presence of over 1,000 people. Warlina was conducted to the scaffold at 11:40 and when on the trap delivered a wild harangue, partly in broken English and partly in Holland Dutch, declaring his innocence of the crime charged against him and calling upon God to have mercy upon his accusers. At 11:52 the trap was sprung and his body allowed to hand until 12:25 p. m., when he was cut down. His neck was broken by the fall. None of his relatives were present. Yesterday Wartena was baptised in the Catholic faith.

The crime for which Wartena was hanged was committed on the 29th of October, 1884. Wartena came to this country from Holland a few years ago and located near French Landing, on the Kankakee river. He procured food for himself, wife, and four children by fishing in the river and doing odd jobs for the neighbors. One of these neighbors was John Dreger, who owned a small farm and some cattle. Dreger lest his wife, but kept house in the same condition as during his wife's lifetime, assisted by Wartena and sometimes boarded with him. On the 29th of October, 1884, one Rainer found the body of a man floating in the river. It was afterwards identified as Dreger's. Wartena had pursuaded Dreger to go to the river with him for some fish. While there he watched his chance and felled Dreger to the earth with a blow with the buttend of a gun. The gun was broken by the force of the blow in such a manner as to leave a long sharp point extendin from the breech and with that he made a deep hole in the neck. As soon as the victim was dead he threw the body in the river. Wartena immediately after the murder took possession of all Dreger's property, claiming he had bought it for $375, paying for it with a check which he had received from the old country, and that Dreger had returned there. Immediately after discovery and identification of the body, Wartena was arrested, and on Nov. 4, 1884, made a complete confession, and gave as a reason that he was poor and that his family was destitute and that he desired to get food for them

Beheaded by His Partner.

DENVER, Col., Feb. 26.—J. B. Stitzer, engineer at the Aspen smelter, and another employe went to a cabin occupied by a German named Frank Tancer, yesterday to discover the reason why he had not been working for several days past. On entering the cabin they were horrified to see Tancer lying on the bed with his head nearly severed from his body and an axe covered with dried blood lying by his side. Tancer was known to have concealed about his person about $200. The murderer is unknown, but he is supposed to be John Keis, Tancer's partner. Both worked at the smelter until some days ago, when they disappeared. A reward will be offered for the arrest of Reis.

The committee stated that about 1,000 of the men wanted to go to work regardless of any action that might be taken by the Knights of Labor. The works have been closed since Dec. 16 because the men insisted on the discharge of some non-union men.

A MINING FIGHT IN ARIZONA.

A Long Litigation—Mixed Condition of Mining Laws—The Need and Value of Reform.

A Tombstone, Arizona, correspondent of the NewYork Evening Post writes: An important mining suit, involving a large sum of money and vital principles in the establishment and maintenance of miners' rights, is now in progress here before the county court, Judge Webster Street presiding, The parties in action are the Copper Queen Consolidated Mining company, plaintiff, and the Arizona Prince Copper company, defendant. Both companies are owned by New York people, and their properties lie side by side in the town of Bisbee, thirty miles south, near the Mexican line. They are represented here by their respective presidents, Prof. James Douglass, Jr., and Arthur F. Wendt, of New York. The case has exessorited so much interest that Judge Street, in his injunctions to jury, used extraordinary precautions, putting them under the restraints customary in a capital criminal trial.

It seems that the town of Bisbee grew out of the discovery about 1878 of a valuable seam of copper in a canyon of the Mule mountains. That property, called the Copper Queen mine, passed into the hands of the company now called the Copper Queen Consolidated Mining company. A year or two later, about 1880, a new vein was discovered, having its croppings beyond the limits of the Queen's property, and apparently running parallel with it. This is now the domain of the Arizona Prince Copper company. All went well until, by the development of the Prince property, the discovery was made that the seam, after running down vertically for a time, dipped, and by an incline ran directly under the side lines of the Queen. Then there was war in the household of course. The Prince sued and got judgment, as the mining laws permit the following of the vein, whose apex is upon the surface, even under the workings of another mine upon its side lines. The Queen appealed, but the supreme court of the territory affirmed the decision of the lower court. This suit began in May, 1883, ran along for months, and cost a great deal of money. Then the work went on again.

But further developments made a new revelation, out of which has arisen a decree of court granting a hearing of the former suit (which will come off at the next term of the supreme court), an injunction granted December last, restraining the Prince from taking out any more ore, and this present suit now pending, of the Queen against the Prince, for damages. It is alleged that the vein whose apex was upon the property of the Prince, and which the law allows them to follow down upon the side lines under the property of the Queen, terminated at a certain incline and running at right angles with both mines, and about five hundred feet from their northern limits. This would entitle the Prince to work under the Queen up to that line and there stop. But once under ground they have gone on and extracted immense quantities of ore beyond the limits of this vertical line. Hence the injunction and suit for damages on the part of the Queen.

Aside from technicalities incumbering this case, which have nothing to do with its merits, but which have absorbed the time of the court and counsel thus far, it will be a nice point of law for the court to determine, mixed and uncertain as mining statutes and precedents are, whether the owner of a mine is not allowed to follow his vein to the utmost limits of his patent, under the property of a foreign corporation, even though its apex be not found continuously upon the surface. Again, it will be a very difficult point of fact for any ordinary jury of inexperts to determine, in the face of opposing counsel, what constitutes a vein, or continuous vein, especially after the ground has been worked over. If the jury fails to agree, as seems to be probable in this case, the stoppage of an import industry results for an indefinite time. If it finds for either party, and the decision is sustained by the higher courts, to which it will undoubtedly be carried, great and undeserved loss will accrue to honest men pursuing a legitimate business, the effect of which will ultimately fall upon the mining interest itself.

The moral of this is plain, and both parties to the suit feel it. The mining laws of this country are framed in the interest of lawyers; whether so intended or not, such is the fact. They begin in a tangle, and the snarl is perpetuated often to the consumption of a large portion of the profits which have accrued or which would have accrued but for needless litigation. Putting aside salted mines, oreless holes, or gigantic swindles originated to sell stock and make money regardless of the presence or absence of mineral, there are legitimate corporations, with large capital honestly invested, who are unwittingly walked into expensive lawsuits, to the absorption of all dividends, through the defective, litigation-producing statutes of this country. Law suits, with all their intricacies, delays, and uncertainties, are inevitable so long as fraud, accident, and crime exist, but they ought not to be inevitable between honest men engaging in a legitimate business. And yet litigation is one of the contingencies put in in figuring on mining profits. "To buy a mine is to buy a lawsuit" is a trite saying. The real suffering entailed by such warfare, if it could be placed or traced to its consequences, might be found greater than that caused by the depredations of the Apaches.

There is room here for the employment of capital to an almost unlimited degree upon low grade ores when companies of conservative eastern men can be vested and protected in their rights to mine and work the ore on property which they can control in all the details of property interests common to capital and labor. Here is an opportunity for some member of the senate or house to frame a bill which will, at least in future enterprises, make these expensive law suits impossible. The agitation of the subject and the fortunes of such a bill would determine who of the legal talent of the land were patriots concerned to promote the public good, and who follow the profession merely to grow fat upon public misfortunes and misunderstandings.

As I write the counsel for the prince have put in the plea of res judicata, and the court has admitted in evidence the findings of the former trial, and though it is not at all likely that the plaintiff will be non-suited, yet the real merits of this case have not yet been reached.

A MONTANA BLIZZARD.

How it Howled in Dead Man's Gulch—Some Sad Sacrifices.

From the New York Star.

It was in the smoking car of a train on the Erie road, and some one had asked him how cold he had seen it in Montana.

"Well, sir, I'll relate a little experience of mine in 1870," he replied, as he threw his stub away. "I was then operating a saw mill on Fat Injun creek, and courting a girl about thirteen miles away. One night in February, when the thermometer stood 26 degrees above zero, I rode over to see her. The family consisted of herself, father, mother, two young children and a Chinaman cook. I was warmly received, and the old folks had just gone off to bed when a blizzard came blowing down Dead Man's Gulch. Snow came with it, and inside of an hour the house was banked in. The thermometer kept going down and down, and before 3 o'clock next morning the mercury was dead out of sight. There was mighty little fuel for the fire, and the last stick was gone before daylight. We burned up doors, chairs, bedsteads and tables, but the cold kept growing more severe, and along toward night the father, mother and two children froze to death."

"You don't mean it!" whispered one of his listeners.

"Every word of it."

"How did the girl escape?"

"I had her on my lap with my arms around her. The old woman, when she found death approaching, begged me to hug her, too, but I refused. There's no Mormon about me. But for my presence of mind I should not be here to-day."

"Why?"

"Well, when the last stick of fuel was exhausted I jammed the body of the old man into the fireplace. It soon blazed up and made the hottest fire we had since the cold set in. He was a tough old chap, and lasted us until about midnight. I then got up and threw the old woman on for a backlog, and used the children to chink in with."

"How did the girl take it?"

"All right until just before daylight. Then she suddenly remembered that the old man had $1 50 in his vest pocket when I flung him on, and this of course was lost. She reproached me for my carelessness, and one word brought on another, until I plainly realized she was no wife for me. I told her as much, and she went off to sulk in a corner. I sat toasting my shins before the grateful fire for a quarter of an hour, and then looked around and found her dead."

"You don't say. Was she frozen?"

"Stiff as a crowbar. Affairs must have been shaped by the hand of providence, for it was ten hours longer before the blizzard broke, and I had to use her for firewood. Not having any more small children to chink in with, she burnt like a log of swamp elm, and the end of my nose was frozen within five feet of the fire. She was just about gone when the blizzard broke, and I dug my way out."

"And you actually burned up that whole family to save your own infernal carcass!" exclaimed the man with the briar-root.

"Well, what could I do?"

"You look a here!" continued the other, "I'm in a strange state now, and I don't know the laws, and don't want to get into jail; but I live in St. Thomas, Canada, and if ever I catch you six inches into Canadian soil and don't maul the daylight out of you, then may St. Peter go back on me at Heaven's gate!"

The Montana man bowed his head and would say no more, although he had not told what became of the Chinaman.

Agriculture in Denver.

From the Denver Tribune-Republican.

Denver owes no small share of her success in distancing all rivals to the fact that she was from the first embowered in the green foliage of shade trees. The majority of the men of money and brains who have located here within recent years have been largely influenced by the exterior attractions of the city, chief among which have been the trees. Were every street tree felled, our beautiful metropolis would present a dreary appearance. Our people would be willing to give millions to have them restored. But, as is the case with all blessings, this one is not fully appreciated by those accustomed to it. The trees have frequently been neglected [illegible] about and there inte[illegible] waiting wh[illegible] the uniform lines of green forest for which the residence streets are noted. The care and control of the trees has been left to individual public spirit. Consequently there are places where the shade is ragged and uneven. The wonder is that under such a voluntary system so much has been accomplished. In the suburbs whole blocks are often found where not a tree has been planted, and yet nothing could add more to the value of the land.

A Queen's Superstition.

Lucy Hooper's Paris Letter.

A curious story was recently told me respecting the Queen Regent of Spain, which goes to prove that even that intelligent lady is not free from the touch of superstition to which it seems that all feminine minds, even of the strongest, are liable. On the day that the offer of King Alfonso's hand to the Archduchess Christina was officially made known to that young lady she had, by some chance, on rising put on garters of different colors. As the great good fortune of her life had come to her on that day, she never henceforward would consent to wear a pair of garters to match. One might be pale blue and the other rose-colored, or one was white and the other scarlet, etc. Thus it became a habit with the keeper of the royal wardrobe to order at a time several pairs of these silken articles, always of different tints. But one day while King Alfonso was very ill, it was discovered by the lady in waiting on the queen that by some mischance there remained on hand only three or four pairs, and they were all of one color—pale blue, if I remember rightly. In the hurry of Donna Christina's toilet, for she was in haste to return to her husband's bedside, this change in the small detail of her attire passed unnoticed. That day the king died, and when the young widow, woe worn and heart broken, was about to retire to rest she suddenly became aware of the lapse from the small superstition of her happy years. "It was an omen," she exclaimed, and she wept bitterly.

A Receiver for Bartley Campbell.

Special Telegram to The Star.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Judge Hyatt in the city court yesterday appointed Ernst Harvier receiver of the property of Bartley Campbell, the dramatist and theatrical manager. The application was made on an unsatisfied judgment for $828 obtained by Bernard Brady, a real estate man on an old claim. Mr. Harvier said last night: "Mr. Campbell is not seriously embarassed. He is a little extended, that's all. He has half a dozen theatrical ventures now going and the management of business interests of these organizations has devolved on various road managers, the doings of at least two of whom have tended to injure rather than to aid the ultimate adjustment of Mr. Campbell's interests. He has a four years' lease of the Fourteenth street theater, now sub-let to E. E. Rice. Yesterday's proceedings will not affect Mr. Campbell's tenure of this in the slightest degree. At the present time three of his plays are being given in New York. Mr. Campbell is all right. His present complication, as I may call it, have become a heritage of all men of letters who engage in business enterprises."

A Birdless Country.

From the New York Sun.

The selling of skins of insectiverous or song birds as hat decorations should be made unlawful; then the killing of the birds would stop. There are persons in a New Jersey town who own an enormous net, which they set near the haunts of birds during their migrations, and at night, with long poles and shouts, drive the birds within the enclosure. One of these persons said that he caught 600 purple grackle in one drive. A few years ago only birds of handsome plumage were in demand, but now even the plainest birds are marketable, as the dealers have a method of dyeing and gilding the feathers in gorgeous style. I saw a lady the other day who wore six swallows on her bonnet; but I recognized them by their forms only. Our millinery store windows display hundreds of bird skins, which, although twisted into the most fantastic shapes and dyed the most brilliant hues, can readily be recognized as the skins of well known songsters. If measures are not taken to prevent this wholesale destruction, the United States, in the not distant future will become like France, a "birdless country."

A Poor Crop Outlook.

TOPEKA, Kas., Feb. 26.—The first discouraging report of the growing wheat crop in Kansas comes from Washington county. J. M. Jackson, a prominent grain grower living near Clifton, made an examination of his fields. He finds the crop already damaged to a considerable extent. The examination shows that roots are dry and the blades resemble cured hay. He estimates that at best there will be only about 50 per cent of the crop on the old ground, and on some fields much less. Wheat sown on new breaking will yield much better.

Never Got So Far.

From the Texas Siftings.

"You say that you have played Macbeth?" said a New York theatrical manager to an applicant for a position.

"I have acted the role of Macbeth fourteen times."

"Well, let me hear you repeat his defiance to Macduff."

"Oh, I never got so far as that. The audience always made me quit before I got to that part."

The Street Railroad Squabble.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Public interest in the Broadway investigation is on the wane. The room was only half full to-day when the committee was called to order. Chas. E. B. Townsend, a professional accountant, was examined in regard to the books of the Seventh Avenue line, but nothing new was developed. President Forshay was the next witness and explained the contract between the Seventh avenue and Broadway roads, and the Philadelphia syndicate for the purchase of 1,000 shares of the road. Hermann B. Barke, paying teller of the Broadway bank, was next examined in regard to Sharp's account with that bank.

The Severest Storm for Fifteen Years.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The wind is increasing in velocity, and fences, signs and awnings are being blown down everywhere. A statue in Brooklyn, owned by Thomas Marshal, was blown down, doing but no one was seriously injured. Travel on the elevated railways is greatly retarded. The signal service reports the wind fifty-eight miles an hour. The temperature had fallen at noon 17 deg. The storm will probably last all day. The signal service people say the storm in point of wind is the severest in the past fifteen years.

A Bank Failure.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 26.—A special from Houston, Tex., to the Post-Dispatch says the Houston Savings bank closed its doors this morning. Some of the bank's heaviest depositers withdrew yesterday afternoon and later in the day asked that a receiver for the bank be appointed. D. F. Smith was appointed and the affaris of the bank are now in his hands. The total amount of money deposited with the bank is $250,000. Its failure is due to the heavy run upon it at the time when the Houston City bank failed recently.

The Northwestern.

ANOTHER BLIZZARD ON THE WARPATH

Giving New York a Shaking Up—A Hurricane at Baltimore—The Fire Record—Other Casualties Reported To-day from Various Parts of the Country.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The western blizzard has reached New York. The mercury has fallen over 20 degrees in the past few hours. The wind is blowing a gale and the sea in the bay is unusually high and it is feared the gale will prove almost as disastrous to the shipping as the great storm of Jan. 9 last.

Crushed by a Clay Bank.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 26.—Phillip and Gregory Joral, aged 24 and 17 years respectively, were employed by Joseph Ruprecht to dig clay in his quarry on the river Des Peres, between Barracks road and Gravois road. While eating dinner at 1 o'clock, yesterday, the clay bank, 100 feet high, caved in covering them up. About a half an hour later Ruprecht came along with some teamsters and dug them out. Phillip was badly injured and was taken to his home on Laughboro avenue, near Twelfth street, where Dr. Breight attended him. Gregory was crushed to death and his body was taken to Hoffmeister, the Carondelet undertaker, at 1810 South Broadway.

A Strong Breeze.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 26.—One of the heaviest gales of the season set in last night and continued to-day. The wind reached a velocity of fifty-seven miles an hour. About 9 o'clock last night while the wind was blowing a strong gale, a lady said to be a sister of the late ex-Governor Seymour, was blown from a Lake Shore train between Erie and Dunkirk. She attempted to pass from the dining car to the sleeper with her husband. No sooner had they stepped upon the platform than she was carried swiftly off the train. The train backed nearly a mile before they found the lady, who had escaped death but received a severe gash over the left temple.

The Mercury's Tumble.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 26.—The wind storm which struck here last night in advance of the western blizzard did no serious damage in this vicinity. In the eastern portion of the state, however, telegraph lines were blown down. Communication was almost entirely interrupted. The gale continued all night, accompanied by a slight fall of snow, and within twenty-four hours the mercury fell forty-three degrees.

Baltimore Catches It.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26.—After a fearful rain storm last night Baltimore and vicinity was visited by a hurricane more severe than for several years. In the western section of the city houses were unroofed. The damage will be considerable. To-day the wind still runs high, with frequent gusts of snow.

How times have changed even in poor old, benighted, ignorant Spain! A prince of the house of Bourbon has been tried by a court martial for using disrespectful language to the queen. The offender was drunk when he committed the offense and plead that in extenuation of his crime. He supposed that his family name would save him from prosecution, although the prosecuting witness was a queen. But his family did not dare to face public opinion and abandoned him to his fate. This noble, Don ENRIQUE DE BOURBON comes of a long line of noble ancestors, who have held at one time or another half the thrones of Europe, and have held their grip until they were driven out by the people. It is a hopeful evidence of the general progress to see a prince of the notorious house of Bourbon tried by court martial for an offense, like a common soldier who had been guilty of the same offense, and this, too, Spain.

THE clerks in the government departments at Washington have got up a novel scheme to offset the disastrous effect produced by the official axe when it falls. They have organized a sort of mutual assurance society, the members to contribute one dollar each for the benefit of a clerk who may be discharged. As there are about 7,000 employes in the departments this scheme would give to each member discharged a very comfortable sum, and would tend greatly to allay the pain to his lacerated feelings, if, indeed, it did not act as an inducement for men to court dismissal. If the new clerks could be got to join the association as fast as they came in, and the assessments were promptly paid there would be no civil service reform law or tenure of office act that would be strong enough to hold them. By all means let the good work proceed, and the result will be rotation in office with a rapidity which will astonish the natives.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has been rather unfortunate in the selection of his cabinet, although his errors in making selections were not apparent even to his enemies until long after those selections had been made. GARLAND'S stock in the Pan-Electric telephone company has placed him under a deal of suspicion, though how just that suspicion is we will not undertake to say. WHITNEY'S appointment to the naval secretaryship was received with a manifest lack of enthusiasm because of his connection with the Standard oil company, but aside from that was apparently unobjectionable. Now, however, he appears as one of the schemers involved in the great Broadway Surface railroad steal and it is even charged that he is now hiding in Jersey City to avoid the vigorous cross-questioning of Mr. CONKLING concerning his connection with that very questionable transaction. It would not be surprising if Mr. CLEVELAND requested these gentlemen's resignations—feeling that he cannot afford to retain in his cabinet men against whom even a suspicion of corruption attaches.

What a grand, great country this is with its vast territory, its big rivers, its pretty women, and its Veni Vidi Vici cure—Salvation Oil.

THE CITY.

A Case Strongly Suggestive of Death by Morphine.

Sudden Termination of a Life of Dissipation.

Eastern Capitalists Flocking to Kansas City.

More Depot Room Needed---Other News of To-day.

Dissipation and Death.

Thursday a well dressed young man, about 25 years old, made his appearance at a boarding house near the corner of Mulberry street and Union avenue, but did not make known his name. He said that he had come to this city to purchase a house and would remain several days. He retired to his room about 7 o'clock, but did not come down to breakfast or dinner yesterday. Suspicions were aroused and last night the room was entered and the man found lying upon the bed, dead. His remains were taken to Carlat's. There was nothing on his person to tell either his name or place of residence, and the circumstances pointed strongly to his having died from the effects of morphine. This morning, however, he was identified by H. C. Ellison, of the firm of Richards & Conover. The man proved to be J. O. Barber who originally came from New York city, where his father, Alfred Barber, a wealthy coal dealer, resides. Young Barber began to dissipate so badly several years ago that his father thought it best to place him upon a ranch in the west. Accordingly, he was sent to a fine ranch within twenty-three miles of Manhattan, Kas., where he has been for the past year and a half. A few days ago he arrived in the city, and Thursday called upon Mr. Ellison, whom he knew seven or eight years ago in New York. When he called upon Mr. Ellison he was suffering from the effects of a spree and was out of money. He had pawned his clothes, and was in a very destitute condition. Mr. Ellison loaned him money and expected to see him again yesterday. When he read the description of the man found dead in the boarding house, he became convinced it was Barber and at once called at Carlat's, where he identified his dead friend. He does not think that Barber committed suicide, but rather believes he died from dissipation. Coroner McDonald is undecided as to whether or not he will hold an inquest. Mr. Ellison will see that the remains of Barber are properly cared for, and will either ship them to New York or give him a decent burial here.

MORE ROOM NEEDED.

A Vast Throng of People at the Union Depot To-day—A Scene that Surprised all Strangers.

The Union depot presented a scene of activity this morning, that astonished everyone who witnessed it. Men who are familiar with the great life of the city could not keep from talking about the crowd, while strangers seemed utterly confused. The crowd, in fact, was altogether too large for the depot. There was scarcely standing room in the ladies waiting room and around the ticket office the people were literally packed until they could scarcely move one way or another. A gentleman who had made five or six futile attempts to enter one of the waiting rooms, leaned up against the wall, dropped his "grip" and muttered: "Why the d—l don't they make this door about six times as wide as it now is?" There were not seats enough in any of the waiting rooms to accommodate the crowd, and the platform was black with people from one end of the depot to the other. Travel has increased wonderfully within the past two weeks and the spring immigration has not yet begun.

The jam in the waiting rooms this morning made plain the fact that the Union depot is too small to accommodate the thousands of passengers which the railroads daily bring to the city. Other lines are building to the city, and when they are put in operation a still heavier tide of humanity will pour into the depot. More room will have to be secured in order to accommodate the traveling public, and the ground necessary for an addition to the present depot cannot easily be secured. This fact leads to a very general belief that in the near future the Union depot will be removed to the southern part of the city where plenty of ground can be obtained at a reasonable figure.

BUYERS FROM THE EAST.

Excursions of Real Estate Purchasers Coming from Eastern Cities.

Preparations are being made in several eastern cities to organize Kansas City excursions. It is said that there are thousands of people throughout Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York who are only waiting for cheap rates to enable them to visit Kansas City. The excitement over Kansas City real estate and future is quite as great a thousand miles east as it is here. The excursion now forming will land 700 real estate buyers on the Union depot platform early in March.

No Council To-Night.

The council meeting called for to-night has been postponed until Monday night, the date for holding a regular session. The mayor will then return without his signature the ordinance renewing, for a period of twenty years, the grant now held by the Missouri Pacific Railroad company for a piece of ground near First street and Grand avenue. The veto will probably be sustained, as several who voted for the ordinance have declared that they will not vote to pass it over the veto. It would require a change in the vote of but one alderman to sustain the veto.

Mission Changed.

The mission recently held in the Cartoon saloon by Henning, has been removed to Fourth street, near Walnut, where the people of the neighborhood will have offered them free religious privileges. It is to be hoped they will duly appreciate this effort of the Christian people to reach them with the gospel. A Sunday school will be opened on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Meetings every night.

FOR SALE—REAL ESTATE.

South Side.

MOUNT AUBURN—
This is said to be the highest point of land in Jackson county. The view is simply grand. The streets are now being graded by the company, and without additional cost on the lots. No advance has as yet been made over last year's prices. Westport line of street cars pass Mount Auburn every few minutes on the grand boulevard. Broadway is the western boundary, Springfield ave. the southern. Mount Auburn is exactly the same distance from the Junction as Eighteenth st. and Woodland ave. The prices on lots are 25 per cent lower than in out-of-the-way additions one and two miles further off. I can make long time building loans to parties wanting homes; I can make terms to suit for all wishing property for investment and speculation. Representing, as I do, the owners direct, purchaser can secure the most favorable terms by dealing with me in person—my best judgment is at the service of my patrons. Will be glad to meet strangers.
A. M. WINNER, 123 W. Sixth st.

$200 FOR THE CHOICE FROM FIVE LOTS in Mount Auburn—tough, you bet they are tough—but cheap at $8 a foot.
A. M. WINNER, 123 W. Sixth st.

$225 EACH IS THE PRICE ON A COUPLE of lots on Central st. If you are blind or not very particular you can take them in at $9 a foot. Only two of them in all of Mount Auburn.
A. M. WINNER, 123 W. Sixth st.

$300—I HAVE TEN LOTS ON WYANDOTTE st. for $300 each—$50 cash and balance at $10 a month. "You pay your money and you take your choice."
A. M. WINNER, 123 W. Sixth st.

$350—THIS SUM WILL ALLOW YOU TO select one from about a dozen lots at various points in Mount Auburn—$50 cash, balance at $12.50 per month. If you are satisfied with an humble home and want to save rent, look at these lots.
A. M. WINNER, 123 W. Sixth st.

$400—A PERSON OF JUDGMENT CAN pick out a bargain from the lots at $400 each. I will make easy terms—$100 cash, balance in 1, 2 and 3 years, or will build homes for reliable parties who desire to save rent.
A. M. WINNER, 123 W. Sixth st.

$450—NOW I CAN TALK. ON CENTRAL st. in Mount Auburn I can sell as pretty level lots as you ever saw for $450 each, on a graded street, four feet above grade, level as a floor and with a splendid view; should be seen to be appreciated; $100 only in cash, $200 in three years at 8 per cent; $150 at $10 or more per month Enough said.
A. M WINNER, 123 W. Sixth st.

$500 IS A VERY REASONABLE SUM TO pay for 25x125 feet such as I can show you on Baltimore ave., Wyandotte, Central st. or Broadway. You can handle any of these lots with $100 or more in cash and can make terms with me that will not cramp you. You fool away 50 cents a day; it will pay for a lot in less than three years. Salt it down.
A. M. WINNER, 123 W. Sixth st.

$550 IS THE FIGURE REPRESENTING THE best lots in Mt. Auburn; fine, high ground, lovely view of the city, healthiest location, easiest of access, building up with good houses, every advantage to make it desirable; men with brains under their hats will not go a mile or two farther and pay more money for much poorer property.
A. M. WINNER, 123 W. Sixth st.

SPECIAL NOTICE!—MOUNT AUBURN IS owned by the WINNER INVESTMENT COMPANY, and the prices on the unsold lots are exactly the same as when platted last year. In buying from me you secure your lots at old prices and on special easy terms.
A. M. WINNER, 123 W. Sixth st.

MOUNT EVANSTON ADDITION TO THE CITY of Kansas is said to be the lowest priced property in or about Kansas City. The addition contains about 13 acres, cornering on Twenty-third and Vine sts. The location for health and beauty is not excelled, and for convenience of access will be brought into direct communication with Union depot and all parts of the city by a branch of the new cable line. Lots in this addition front on Vine, Highland and Woodland aves., and in the midst of good improvements are bound to sell, and rapidly. This property is within easy walking distance of the center of the city, and in buying in this addition you get the benefit of same prices and even less than they are asking for suburban lots. We furnish a full abstract from government to plat, with certificate of title, to each purchaser. Just think of it! $16 per foot for good desirable city lots, within three minutes' walk of street cars and a projected line right by the door. As far as terms go, we can make any, and where others make easy terms we can make easier. There is no reason why anyone should not start the foundation for a home or speculation. For those who want a home to move into and save rent, that is, instead of paying rent, apply the payments to buying a home, we will build and sell you the property cheap.

This property is fast increasing in value and is building up with good homes, and of the many additions on the market, we can recommend this. It speaks for itself.

I have an office on the grounds, or call on

MOONBEAMS.

"Beautiful moon, bright, emblem of the night,
Shed not thy beams, but give us lots of light"

TO READ THIS MOONLIT AD.

Oh! thou serenest moon, that with thy lovely face dost beam upon "the little man" that's liveliest in this place; tell me in all thy midnight minds, hast thou not seen some store where Spring Overcoats are sold as cheap as in the good old days of yore?

Pale Luna never stopped her gait as through the heavens she tore, but said: "For goodness, gracious sake, old man! haven't you heard of CLOTHIER HAMMERSLOUGH before ?"

McDonald, Rose Pero and — Pero, her husband, Kate McDonald, F. L. Flanders and unknown parties, to-wit, the heirs of Frank H. McDonald, deceased, defendants.

Now on this, the 11th day of February, A. D. 1886, comes said plaintiff by attorney John C. Wallace, esq., and files its petition in the above entitled cause duly verified under oath of said relator, and having alleged therein that said relator verily believes that their are persons heirs of Frank H. McDonald interested in the real estate described in said petition, whose names he cannot insert therein because they are unknown to him; that said unknown parties are interested in said real estate as heirs of and derive their interest through said Frank H. McDonald, and having further alleged therein that said defendants, Joseph Francis McDonald, Charles E. McDonald, Rose Pero and — Pero, her husband, and Kate McDonald are non-residents of the state of Missouri; thereupon the court makes the following order to said defendants, Joseph Francis McDonald, Charles E. McDonald, Rose Pero and — Pero, her husband, Kate McDonald and unknown parties, to-wit, the heirs of Frank H. McDonald, deceased: You are notified that plaintiff, the state of Missouri, at the relation and to the use of Robert G. J. Lloyd's sub-division of the east half of the southeast quarter of section seven in township forty-nine of range thirty-three, taxes which, with interest and county clerk's fees amount to following sums for respective years at time of making back tax book, to-wit: $14.55 for 1875, $11.30 for 1876, $7.05 for 1877, $5.90 for 1878, $5.65 for 1879, $6.48 for 1880, $27.93 for 1881, $22.63 for 1882, $14.94 for 1883, $16.74 for 1884, all due, delinquent, unpaid, and a lien on said real estate, which defendants in said suit owe; that relator verily believes that there are persons heirs of Frank H. McDonald interested in said real estate, whose names he cannot insert because they are unknown to him; that said unknown parties are interested in said real estate as heirs of and derive their interest through said Frank H. McDonald.

Wherefore, the state of Missouri, at the relation and use aforesaid pray judgment for the sum of one hundred and thirty-three dollars and seventeen cents, aggregate of the amounts aforesaid, together with interest from the 1st day of May, 1885, at ten per cent per annum, attorney's fees, collector's commissions and costs of this proceeding, and that the same be declared a lien in favor of the state of Missouri against said real estate; that said lien be enforced and said real estate, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy such judgment, interest fees, commissions, and costs therein be sold, and that a special fieri facias be issued thereon.
